EDGE INFORMATION MANAGEMENT KEEPS CLIENTS ON TOP OF MOBILE TECHNOLOGY

MELBOURNE, FL—October 1, 2017 Edge Information Management continues to invest in its employee screening technology with enhancements in functionality that users expect in order to stay cutting edge in their own business.

Edge clients are transitioning to the latest version of WebScreen™, Edge's proprietary software, which offers more mobile functionality for clients and their job candidates. Today's workforce is used to navigating on mobile devices, accessing the Internet from other places besides a desk.

WebScreen™ is a premier online tool allowing authorized individuals to request background searches, review results, track final hiring decisions, view archived reports, email results, run multiple reports and more. WebScreen™'s flexibility and control makes it the most useful single-site background screening system available today.

A new feature, the Applicant Entry Portal moves beyond going paperless to making the workload lighter for our human resource users. Job candidates review and sign disclosure forms, enter personal information and submit it to human resources. The WebScreen™ dashboard makes assigning a screening package a breeze with email notifications when the candidate or report is ready.

"While we are proud of our product, we can't be comfortable that it will last in the fast-moving technological world," says Edge VP of Internet Technology Marc Giguere. "Our clients, as well as their job candidates, expect certain functions and user-friendliness."

More importantly, the Applicant Entry Portal offers assistance in maintaining compliance, reducing operational costs and liability concerns. Edge Information Management's compliance department helps clients meet federal guidelines for handling personal information. Based on log-in and passwords, senior executives have the ability to decide who has viewing privileges to sensitive information and who does not.

The new portal is also customizable, allowing the client to showcase their brand to applicants. This is important to clients attracting quality applicants in the skilled labor force.

For companies providing their multi-site locations (field sites) internet access, WebScreen™ is the perfect solution for background and drug screening. Using WebScreen™, the corporate office can ensure that individual hiring managers make background requests by “position” only. The corporate office then reviews all report information to make the hiring decision.

“We want to give our customers the tools they need to work smarter with an optimized experience,” notes Edge President Joe Langford. “With today’s use of the Internet going mobile, they won’t have to work harder.”
